

The Mark F. Weiss Law Firm, A Professional Corporation

MARK F. WEISS

Shareholder

Practice Specialties: Healthcare Law

Mark F. Weiss provides intensive, relationship-based counsel to clients on a wide range of healthcare and healthcare-compliance related corporate law issues.

The primary focus of his practice is working with clients on a strategic level and on the negotiation, and transformational improvement of, their business relationships.

With over 30 years healthcare law practice experience as well as business experience inside and outside of healthcare, including a senior leadership role in medical group management and experience as the CEO of a healthcare financial services firm, Mr. Weiss brings singular expertise to the benefit of his Clients.

In addition, from 2002 to 2013, Mr. Weiss held an academic appointment as a Clinical Assistant Professor of Anesthesiology at the Keck School of Medicine of the University of Southern California, where he developed and taught a nine subject seminar series on the business and legal issues affecting physicians.

Mr. Weiss's philosophy of practice is based on the premise that the most effective representation takes into account, and is coordinated with, the Client's overall strategic goals. This avoids one of the major complicating factors of the traditional approach to opportunities and challenges in which issues are confronted on a "piecemeal" basis, one at a time without coordination with your overall goals. That outmoded methodology is generally focused reactively on problems, not proactively on the mitigation of dangers, exploitation of opportunities, and the multiplication of your strengths. Traditional legal work does nothing to control the level of complexity -- to the contrary, it often increases it.

Areas of Practice:

HEALTHCARE

- Strategic Representation of Hospital Based Group Practices.
The representation of hospital-based physician groups with a particular emphasis on radiology and anesthesiology groups. Formation, governance, employment/subcontracts, exclusive contracts and ongoing, strategic counseling in respect of the Client's relationship with the facilities served.
- Compliance Issues.
Experienced in a wide range of compliance issues including federal and state anti-kickback statute compliance, federal (Stark) and state self-referral issues, HIPAA, and related concerns. In connection with compliance issues, Mr. Weiss has significant experience representing hospital-based physicians and physician groups in potential kickback scheme avoidance, including representation of the Relator in connection with OIG Advisory Opinion 13-15.
- Group Practices.
The creation and ongoing representation of medical groups, from two to over 100 physicians. Structuring and formation of entities for the operation of medical group practices. Counseling in connection with regulatory compliance issues related to medical group formation. Development of intragroup management structures and the ongoing counseling of Clients on a wide range of issues, including the planning and preparation of subcontracts and employment agreements with group physicians and other healthcare professionals, and the resolution of intragroup disputes. Design and structure of intergroup relationships among medical groups.
- Individual Physicians.
Representation of individual physicians in the context of their relationships with medical groups, hospitals, healthcare facilities and managed care entities. Preparation and negotiation of employment and subcontract relationships. Representation of physicians in connection with health care facility medical directorships and clinical research positions.

- Academic Medicine.
Experienced in the representation of medical school academic departments and their department leaders in respect of protecting the academic mission and academic control in an increasingly profit- driven academic world.
- Academic-Private Practice Joint Ventures.
Representation of private practice medical groups in joint venture type arrangements with medical schools/medical school academic departments in connection with the training of medical residents.
- Troubled Multi-Physician Practices.
Representation of physicians involved in intra-group disputes. Projects include the representation of physicians withdrawing from groups as well as the representation of groups in respect of the withdrawal of a member.
- Hospitals, Ambulatory Surgery Centers and other Outpatient Facilities.
Active in the representation of healthcare facilities, their owners and investors, in a wide range of projects. Projects range from the establishment of ASCs and other outpatient facilities, consultation in respect of service contracts, establishment and problem solving in respect of relationships with physicians, and a wide range of legal-related business issues. Mr. Weiss has a particular interest in the formation of what he terms Massive Outpatient Centers™ (“MOCs™”), an ASC + Aftercare + Medical Office Building + Imaging Center + Etc., a hospital without the hospital.
- Physician Management Entities.
Planning and formation of management services organizations (MSOs), physician practice management companies and physician billing/business management entities. Design of entity structure and advice concerning, and documentation of, internal matters as well as the structure and implementation of the relationships between the physician management entity and the various managed entities.
- Exclusive Contracts.
Representative projects include the negotiation and drafting of exclusive contracts between hospitals and ASCs and physician groups. Sites range from small surgery centers to community hospitals to large, internationally renowned medical centers.

- Managed Care Entities.
Representative projects include the planning, drafting and review of organizational documents for the formation of managed care entities (IPAs, PHOs, ACOs, and similar vehicles), the negotiation of reimbursement rates, the negotiation and drafting of provider agreements, and the overall legal representation of managed care entities.
- Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act Issues.
The representation of physician interests in respect to reaction to, and exploitation of opportunities inherent in, the Patient Protection Act, with a particular emphasis on Accountable Care Organizations.
- Mergers and Acquisitions (M&A) in Connection with Medical Practices.
Representative projects include the representation of sellers and purchasers of medical practices/groups. Significant experience working with potential sellers on the strategic issue of their best course of action for the future, whether a merger, an acquisition or the pursuit of one or more alternatives.
- Integrated Delivery Systems.
Representative projects include the representation of numerous medical groups in connection with the formation of integrated delivery systems. Examples include counseling physician groups in connection with the formation of Physician/Hospital Organizations' representation in respect of increasing physician control of ACOs in formation; the representation of a group of investors/physician providers in connection with a holding company formed to provide management services for a network of physicians and hospitals; the representation of a start-up network of university and community based specialists with hospital and ancillary service provider participation; and the representation of the purchaser of a network of multiple primary care offices, a clinical laboratory, multiple imaging centers, and multiple physical therapy centers, which work continued to include the reorganization of the purchased assets and a restructuring of their operations.

- Workers Compensation.
Extensive experience counseling clients (including surgeons, primary care physicians, and multi-specialty groups) on the design and structure of business operations in light of regulatory changes in California's Workers Compensation laws. Expertise in the design of pharmacy programs for the dispensing of pharmaceuticals by physicians to their Workers Compensation patients, including issues ranging from pharmacy compliance to pharmacy wholesaler contracting to the design of factoring and other financing relationships.
- Business Operations.
Counseling of clients in connection with a broad range of business issues. Projects range from consulting regarding specific operational issues to restructuring the business operation, advice in connection with internal issues such as governance, compensation, change of ownership, providing advice in connection with alleged malpractice, general liability and directors and officers insurance matters, and the negotiation of arrangements with service providers including insurance companies, billing services and accounting firms, among others.
- Medical Staff Issues.
Representation of medical staff departments and of department physicians in connection with a range of medical staff privilege and medical staff discipline issues.
- Skilled Nursing Facilities.
Representative projects include the representation of operators of facilities in connection with the acquisition and operation of facilities; the representation of owners of facilities in connection with lease and sale transactions; and the representation of facilities in connection with antikickback, fraud and abuse, and self-referral issues.
- Research and Education.
Representation of tax-exempt entities involved in the active conduct of medical research and education. Representation of teaching hospital medical staff departments in connection with business and regulatory issues related to residency programs.
- Complementary and Alternative Medicine.
Representation of entities engaged in the provision of complementary and alternative medicine services, ranging from international companies providing training designed to alleviate physical and mental conditions to entities operating multi-disciplinary wellness centers.

- False Claims Act.
Advise medical groups and healthcare facilities to prophylactically defend against FCA claims and consult with litigation counsel as subject-matter experts both in connection with the prosecution of, and defense against, healthcare compliance based False Claims Act lawsuits.

CORPORATE LAW IN RESPECT OF HEALTHCARE ENTITIES

- Formation and Structure of Start-Up Entities.
Representation of clients in connection with the selection and formation of business entities; corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies and limited liability partnerships.
- Formation and Structure of Start Up Entities.
Representation of clients in connection with the selection and formation of business entities; corporations, partnerships, limited liability companies and limited liability partnerships.
- Mergers and Acquisitions.
Representation of clients in connection with the acquisition and divestiture of businesses.
- Employment.
Preparation and negotiation of a wide range of employment agreements and independent contractor agreements. Ongoing counseling of clients in connection with employment related matters.
- General Representation/Strategic Planning.
Drawing both on his legal experience and his past service as the interim CEO of a $50 million per year healthcare business, Mr. Weiss counsels clients on a broad range of issues, in effect serving as outside general counsel.
- Joint Ventures/Alliances.
Representation of clients in connection with the evaluation of potential joint ventures, the negotiation of terms of alliance and the documentation of agreements.

- Corporate Governance.
Advising clients in connection with the duties and responsibilities of directors, officers, managing partners, and managing members.
Counseling in connection with the distribution of rights and responsibilities for governance of business entities.
- Nondisclosure/Covenants Not to Compete.
Representation of companies in connection with the protection of intangible assets through nondisclosure and trade secrets agreements and the negotiation and preparation of covenants not to compete. Advise clients on the enforceability of restrictive covenants.
- Related Real Property Issues.
Representation of entities and investors in connection with the ownership, acquisition, disposition and leasing of real property, commercial, industrial and residential.
